

Grade 11

Favorite quote: “The rights of every man are diminished when the rights of one man are threatened.” – John F. Kennedy

Contact: zaid_tantash@abs.edu.jo

Favorite Conference: XXIII

Entering the world of MUN in Grade 8 as a delegate at the Human Rights Council, I did not know how much it would shape my perspective. From the very first conferences, to returning as a delegate in Grade 9, to chairing the Human Rights Council in Grade 10, MUN has been a continuous process of growth and learning. Each position has had something new to teach me—whether it was breaking into the world of debating for the first time, how to chair meetings, or now how to preside over GA3.

Among my many experiences, chairing the Human Rights Council is one that continues to stand out most. It confirmed my interest in humanitarian topics and provided me with greater insights about the importance of respectful dialogue and consultation. This is why the Third General Assembly is also particularly an interest of mine: the emphasis placed on the humanitarian challenges by the Third General Assembly appeals to my interests and belief that justice and dignity should always be at the heart of international cooperation.

In the future, I hope to extend my MUN experience by attending THIMUN and, in the future, possibly going on to pursue a career at the United Nations. These goals are not only the product of my interest in debating, but solely because I hope to be a part in ensuring the values of humankind are never put to the side.

It is a privilege and a pleasure to be President of GA3 at AMMUN XXIV. It is my hope that each delegate finds the experience at this conference to be one of learning and growth and inspiration.